Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation

Charter Preamble, Purpose and Principles

PREAMBLE

The vision of the Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation is that the process of forgiving is vital if healing and reconciliation are to take place, as part of our collective efforts to seek justice, harmony and sustainable peace.

Fostering and practicing forgiveness has the power to transform memories and deep-seated responses to legacies of injustice, conflict and war. It can liberate people from being imprisoned in their pasts and long ingrained mental and emotional conditions. Faith and spiritual traditions guide and inspire us to awaken the best of our human potential, by practicing compassion, mercy, kindness, love, forgiveness and reconciliation, and to positively reshape our destinies.

Forgiveness is understood as an activity arising directly out of a compassionate consciousness, rooted in the awareness that we all belong to one human family. Compassion is an indispensable spiritual disposition in every faith, religion, dharam, or deen, as well as for our everyday human relations. Forgiveness is fostered by our experience of unconditional love and mercy, and an inner calling to live magnanimously and responsibly. It stems from our ability to see a larger context to our individual and collective existence, and from our impulse to lovingly seek and forge genuine and sincere bonds with one another as brothers and sisters.

To see forgiveness as a most profound expression and manifestation of our spiritual and human nature, and a catalyst for inward and outward change, is at the heart of the Charter. To love one's neighbor as oneself means that the efforts to seek forgiveness for oneself are related to endeavors to forgive and receive forgiveness from the other. Our human journey of forgiveness and reconciliation can only be navigated freely and voluntarily. Sharing forgiveness can therefore only be inspired, not demanded.

Existing, inspirational examples of forgiveness compel us to practical and effective actions, leading to reconciliation, conflict transformation and peacebuilding. Forgiveness and reconciliation are an indispensable part of our journey to peace, in our interconnected and interdependent world and our quest for restorative justice.

Throughout history, acts of forgiveness have helped to de-escalate national and international conflicts, and to restore and sustain harmonious relationships in the daily lives of individuals, families, communities and societies. Insights from the lives of outstanding individuals and inspiring grassroots movements, combined with learning from a shared global heritage of sacred teachings, provide guidance to take forward the Charter's work.

By offering paradigms of forgiveness, the Charter inspires commitment and directs activities that contribute to a growing practice of forgiveness and reconciliation, both in public processes and in private settings, in order to foster healing, harmony and peace in a wounded and fractured world.

PURPOSE

We, people, mindful of our shared humanity, commit to practise and nurture forgiveness and reconciliation, to foster healing, harmony, justice and sustainable peace in our world.

PRINCIPLES

1. The Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation is the founding document of a worldwide movement of people, seeking forgiveness, reconciliation, justice and sustainable peace, being aware of the oneness of our human family.

2. We seek forgiveness, reconciliation and peace between individuals, families, communities, public institutions, states and religious traditions.

3. We believe that forgiveness and reconciliation are needed for peace to be sustainable, and to end cycles of violence.

4. We co-create reconciliation and peace, by seeking and receiving forgiveness. Forgiveness is the first step towards a deeper reconciliation.

5. We believe to be forgiving and to let-go of past burdens is in the hand of each of us.

6. We believe that forgiveness cannot be demanded from others, can only be freely offered and is for the benefit, freedom and inner peace of the one who forgives.

7. We believe forgiveness finds completion in becoming unconditional.

8. We aim to express respect, compassion, mercy, kindness and love in all our interactions with others.

9. We believe that peace is more than the absence of violence, and that it includes inner peacefulness as well as peacefulness with others and with the environment.

10. We join hands and reach out to others to free ourselves of destructive pasts, to heal personal wounds, to overcome conflicts and wars, in order to create a better future for all.

11. We draw upon the wisdom of the world's traditions, which include religious, spiritual, indigenous, and philosophical worldviews, as well as on our intuitive sense of compassion.

12. We seek cooperation with all interested and like-minded people, organisations, public institutions and the UN System, bearing in mind the interdependence and unity of humanity.

13. We affirm the equal rights and responsibilities of all women and men, as expressed in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the Universal Declaration of Human Responsibilities.

14. We practise open inclusiveness of all, regardless of gender, traditions, affiliations, and ethnicity.

15. We are committed to non-violence and restorative justice, always seeking peaceful resolutions to conflicts and wars, even if self-defence may be necessary in some circumstances.

16. We support all efforts and initiatives of healing, reconciliation and peacebuilding, and encourage intercultural, interreligious, and interethnic dialogue, understanding and cooperation.

17. We seek to foster harmony within our Earth community and unity amongst our human family, valuing the interconnectedness of all life.

18. We welcome as members and supporters all individuals, organisations and institutions who subscribe to the Preamble, Purpose, and Principles. We will seek affiliation with institutions and networks that support the Vision, Purpose, Aims and Objectives of the Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation.

MARIA VOCE, PRESIDENT, FOCOLARE MOVEMENT, ITALY

Maria Voce was elected president of the Focolare Movement on 7 July 2008 by the General Assembly of the Focolare. She is the first focolarina to succeed the founder, Chiara Lubich, who died on the 14th of March of the same year. She was born in Ajello Calabro, Cosenza, Italy, on 16 July 1937, the first of seven children. Her father was a doctor; her mother a housewife. During her last year of law school in Rome (1959) she met a group of focolarini at the university and was fascinated by their Gospel witness. Upon completion of her studies, she became the first woman lawyer in her city's court system. Later she studied Theology and Canon Law. In 1963, she felt the unexpected and “overwhelming” call of God to follow in the way of Chiara Lubich and she immediately responded. From 1964 to 1972 she was in Sicily, in the Focolare Centres of Syracuse and Catania. From 1972 to 1978 she belonged to Chiara Lubich's personal secretariat and for the following ten years she lived in the Focolare Centre of Istanbul where she established ecumenical and interreligious relationships, especially with the then Patriarch of Constantinople, Demetrius I, and with numerous metropolitans including the now Patriarch Bartholomew I, as well as with representatives of various Churches. As a law expert, from 1995 she was a member of the Abba School, the Centre for Interdisciplinary Studies chaired by Chiara Lubich. From 2000 she was also co-responsible for the international commission, “Communion and Law,” a network of academics and professionals involved in law. From 2002 until their approval, which came in 2007, she worked directly with Chiara Lubich in updating the General Statutes of the Movement. On 24 November 2009 Benedict XVI appointed her as a Consultor for the Pontifical Council for the Laity. Maria Voce was re-elected as President of the Focolare Movement for a second consecutive term in September 2014.

Road Map

1. Formation of editorial panel

An international editorial panel will be established to oversee and direct the writing of the Charter text.

2. Setting up of advisory council

As soon as feasible, an advisory council will be established and convened to include different sectors: religious leaders, scholars and NGO leaders, amongst others.

3. Research component of the project

Research into similar charters, initiatives and best practices will inform the development of the Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation text and the activities associated with the Charter.

4. Project development phase

- to establish an editorial panel to direct the Charter drafting process
- to consult and develop a draft of the Charter text
- to seek collaboration with like-minded organisations and communities
- we held a Symposium in April 2014 and are developing a network of partner organisations for launching the Charter and for supporting associated activities.

5. Project implementation phase

The project implementation phase will include collecting feedback from the consultation process, holding a second Symposium/Consultation, finalising the Charter text, developing joint activities, advancing research projects with partner organisations and launching the Charter internationally.

6. Engagement with governments and global institutions

We will seek engagement with governments and global institutions during the final part of the Charter drafting process (once the Charter text is being finalised and a sufficient network of partner organisations has been established), to inform public policies and strategies, nationally and internationally, in order to make a significant contribution to overcoming and healing the legacies of conflicts and wars. We propose the establishment of a World Day of Forgiveness and Reconciliation, to be held annually during World Interfaith Harmony Week.

Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation Executive Summary

[October 2016]

- In 2011, the question of developing a Charter for Forgiveness was first raised by Bhai Sahib Mohinder Singh, Chairman, Guru Nanak Nishkam Sewak Jatha. In a series of conversations between Bhai Sahib Mohinder Singh and Dr Josef Boehle (University of Birmingham) the initial idea, vision, concept and project proposal for a Charter for Forgiveness were developed.

- After gaining the support of the Fetzer Institute (USA) for the initial project development phase in 2012, additional organisations were approached to seek their support, most prominently the Guerrand-Hermes Foundation for Peace (UK) and Religions for Peace International.

In the early Charter development phase, Forgiveness and Reconciliation were identified as being closely related values and both being necessary to achieve sustainable peace between individuals and communities.

Dr William Vendley, Secretary-General of Religions for Peace International, enthusiastically embraced the Charter idea, vision and project, and joined Bhai Sahib Mohinder Singh as co-convenor of the Charter project.

Bhai Sahib Mohinder Singh and Dr William Vendley as Co-convenors, and Dr Josef Boehle as Director, have since formed the core leadership team.

- A very successful International Symposium on Forgiveness and Reconciliation was held in Birmingham in April 2014, bringing together 30 international experts, leaders and practitioners.

- A Statement of Vision and Purpose was developed by a working team and aided by contributions from the participants in the 2014 Symposium. This Statement summarises succinctly the core aims, principles, values and objectives of the proposed Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation.

This Statement of Vision and Purpose can form the basis for a Preamble of the Charter.

The two opening paragraphs of the Statement of Vision and Purpose:

“The vision of the Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation is that the activity of forgiving is vital if healing and reconciliation is to take place, as part of our collective efforts to seek restorative justice and sustainable peace.

Fostering and practicing forgiveness has the power to transform deep-seated responses to memories and legacies of injustice, conflict and war. It can liberate people from being imprisoned in their pasts and long ingrained mental and emotional conditions created by such legacies. Faith and spiritual traditions have long guided us and inspired us to awaken the best of our human potential, to practice love, mercy, forgiveness and reconciliation, and to reshape our destinies.”

- An Editorial Panel with currently 13 members has been formed to jointly develop the Charter text and to safeguard co-ownership, inclusiveness and high-quality of the Charter from the beginning. After the development of a basic architecture and blueprint for the Charter text, each chapter of the Charter will then be developed subsequently. Each chapter will address specific subject areas, for example diverse constituencies (religious, secular, political, humanitarian) and specific issues (peacebuilding, restorative justice, mercy).

- A Plan of Action and Development Stages have been outlined in the Charter brochure, which include the Charter drafting process, the outreach to like-minded organisations and the wider public, the development of Charter related activities, and the engagement with public bodies and institutions.

At present, the further development of the governance and organisational structure of the Charter, of a business plan and the associated fundraising are crucial for enabling the Charter project to succeed and for the Charter to become the founding document of a collaborative global movement for forgiveness, reconciliation and sustainable peacebuilding.

Current priorities in 2016:

- the drafting of the Charter text together with the Editorial Panel
- the development of a Charter working team to move the organisational development, the business plan and the fundraising forward.

October 2016, Dr Josef Boehle, Director, Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation

Communication and Outreach

Among the planned activities for outreach and communication:

- Consulting with participating organisations and individuals concerning a draft text of the Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation
- Sharing and publicising the Charter text
- Highlighting the unique focus and tangible outcomes of adopting the Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation
- Encouraging seminars and conferences
- Inviting religious communities to engage with the Charter
- Collaborating with similar initiatives/organisations
- Encouraging acts of commitments to the Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation by individuals and organisations
- Establishing an annual award for outstanding examples of Forgiveness and Reconciliation
- Publicising and distributing the Charter text through a variety of web based media

Outcomes and Intended Audiences of the Charter Project

The initial targets and outcomes to be achieved have been described above under the Project Development Phase. The Project Implementation Phase will finalise the draft Charter text, develop joint activities (including further research projects) with partner organisations and launch the Charter internationally. We propose the establishment of a World Day of Forgiveness and Reconciliation, to be held annually during World Interfaith Harmony Week.

The advisory council, as well as the international consultation process devised to draft the Charter text, will bring a wide range of expertise together. This collaborative effort will help to increase understanding amongst the participating organisations and beyond, about the awareness, motivations and conditions for a ‘Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation’.

The research and consultation process will identify many individuals and communities for whom the act of forgiving and being forgiven has had a healing and restorative effect, as well as those who are currently in, or are emerging from, conflict situations. The lack or absence of forgiveness and reconciliation affects people at all levels, from personal, marital and domestic realms to local, national and international arenas. Thus the primary audiences will span:

- Ordinary individuals in the context of home, family, neighbourhood and workplace and associated organisations which support, guide and govern life in these domains.
- Schools/universities/education institutions and religious/spiritual communities, which help to shape the values by which people live.
- Local, national and international guiding institutions.
- Media institutions which influence mindsets, habits, opinions and inclinations.

There are many ways to communicate the work on, and the results of, the Charter. During the chartering process a wide range of individuals and organisations will be consulted and asked to distribute through their networks the draft charter text. A website and a range of multimedia resources will be developed. It is intended to work closely with partner organisations to reach out through media networks to a global audience.

Once the Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation has been successfully launched there will be the further need to communicate with participating organisations, and to organise joint activities. It will also create the possibility for further research projects (case studies) around aspects of forgiveness (e.g. forgiveness and political reconciliation processes, peacebuilding and conflict resolution; forgiveness and community relations, human well-being; forgiveness and education; forgiveness and economics).

The proposed Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation also has a link to the proposed Museum of the World Religions (UK) project in Birmingham and the value-centred Religious Education work of Dr Marius Felderhof (the Director of the Museum project) at the University of Birmingham.

Religions for Peace

Different Faiths, Common Action.

Vision

The world's religious communities cooperate effectively for peace.

Since its founding in 1970, Religions for Peace has been guided by the vision of a world in which religious communities cooperate effectively for peace, by taking concrete common action.

Religions for Peace is committed to leading efforts to advance effective multi-religious cooperation for peace on global, regional, national and local levels while ensuring that the religious communities organized on these same levels assume and exercise appropriate leadership and ownership of these efforts.

Mission

Religions for Peace advances common action among the world's religious communities for peace.

Multi-religious cooperation for peace is the hallmark of Religions for Peace. This cooperation includes but also goes beyond dialogue and bears fruit in common concrete action. Through Religions for Peace, diverse religious communities discern "deeply held and widely shared" moral concerns, such as transforming violent conflict, promoting just and harmonious societies, advancing human development and protecting the earth. Religions for Peace translates these shared moral concerns into concrete multi-religious action

Fetzer Institute

Our Mission

To foster awareness of the power of love and forgiveness in the emerging global community.

People across the globe, from all cultures and traditions, embrace love and forgiveness in daily life. These values are universally viewed as central to the fabric of humanity. Yet, the emerging global community has few institutions dedicated to deepening the understanding and fostering deeper awareness of these values. In this context, the Fetzer Institute pursues a unique role-working to investigate, activate, and celebrate the power of love and forgiveness as a practical force for good in today's world. We are interested in how people truly experience and understand love and forgiveness from their diverse points of view, especially from the perspective of their daily work in the world.

Mission & Objectives

Our mission is to promote and support peace, and a sustainable human future. We seek to contribute strategically to the resolution of human problems, in a spirit of optimism and realism. Our objective is to facilitate processes that help true human qualities to develop in the world, and for our work to be inspired by these qualities.

The GHFP actively

Addressing Dhritarashtra, Vidura said: ‘There is one only defect in forgiving persons, and not another; that defect is that people take a forgiving person to be weak. That defect, however, should not be taken into consideration, for forgiveness is a great power. Forgiveness is a virtue of the weak, and an ornament of the strong. Forgiveness subdues (all) in this world; what is there that forgiveness cannot achieve? What can a wicked person do unto him who carries the sabre of forgiveness in his hand? Fire falling on the grassless ground is extinguished of itself. And unforgiving individual defiles himself with many enormities. Righteousness is the one highest good; and forgiveness is the one supreme peace; knowledge is one supreme contentment; and benevolence, one sole happiness.’

[From the Mahabharata, Udyoga Parva Section XXXIII - Hindu Dharam]

It is forbidden for a person to be cruel and not grant pardon. One should rather easily forgive and not easily grow angry, and when the offender requests forgiveness he should forgive with a full heart and generous spirit. Even if he caused him distress and committed many offenses against him, he shall not exact revenge or bear a grudge. This is the way of the Israelite people and their principled heart. [Hilkhot Teshuva 2:10, Maimonides]

‘God, You are always forgiving, and always merciful’

Fifth Sikh Guru, Guru Arjan Dev Ji

[Sacred Scripture, Guru Granth Sahib Ji, Eternal Guru of the Sikhs, ang.713]

‘But if you pardon and exonerate and forgive, Allah is Ever-Forgiving, Most Merciful’

[Qur’an, 64: 14]

‘Where there are lies and deceit - there is sin; Where there is greed - there is famine, death and destruction; Where there is forgiveness - there is God himself’

Bhagat Kabir Ji

[Sacred Scripture, Guru Granth Sahib Ji, Eternal Guru of the Sikhs, ang.1372]

‘And when you stand praying, if you hold anything against anyone, forgive him, so that your Father in heaven may forgive you your sins.’

[Mark, 11:25, New Testament]

The positive proof that the aspirant is centred in God is that he ceases to hate any person or object, and that good qualities such as love, forgiveness, patience, forbearance go on increasing in him.

Mahatma Gandhi (1869 – 1948)

Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation

Statement of Vision and Purpose

The vision of the Charter for Forgiveness and Reconciliation is that the activity of forgiving is vital if healing and reconciliation is to take place, as part of our collective efforts to seek restorative justice and sustainable peace.

Fostering and practicing forgiveness has the power to transform deep-seated responses to memories and legacies of injustice, conflict and war. It can liberate people from being imprisoned in their pasts and long ingrained mental and emotional conditions created by such legacies. Faith and spiritual traditions have long guided us and inspired us to awaken the best of our human potential, to practice love, mercy, forgiveness and reconciliation, and to reshape our destinies.
